

Home/Home office Support

Can I share my existing Internet connection?

How do I network my home computers?

Can I work from home?

We provide the same level of support for your home as we do for your business. We understand the need for business owners and employees to be able to work from home or while out in the field. We also understand the need for your home computers to run as smoothly as your business computers.

Home support includes:

- Installation and configuration of new hardware/software
- Internet connection sharing
- Home to office access
- Diagnose and resolve computer problems
- Provide expert advice
- Telephone assistance
- Remote support
